COLLEGE

US MAIL

Questioning absolutes, extracting relationships, testing perspectives; creating, understanding, observing, discovering—these are the themes of the college experience. They bring us into concert with life by making us aware of the essence of life: Change—the changing, the changed, the changeable.

Change is an infinite spectrum. It is the bold, dramatic, and profound on the one hand, or the subtle, tenuous, and silent on the other. It is the extravagant newness of a ceaseless variety that makes life full. Yet, it is also a return to that which was.

In these four years, we have seen Change in the deaths of great leaders: Kennedy, Churchill, Nehru, . . .
. . . in the thrust of the Prudential Center urging Boston to new directions, . . .
. . . in the completion of the thorough and thoughtful Self-Study, . . .
. . . and in the metamorphosis of young women, achieving an identity by overcoming challenges, making decisions, and assimilating new experiences.

And often needing a helping hand, we would like to dedicate the 1966 MICROCOSM to the one person who has most helped us cope with the turbulence and change within ourselves, by being a constant and steadying force, . . .

WILLIAM EDGAR PARK, B.D., D.D., M.S.,

President

KATHARINE MAGEE DAVIS, Ed.M.
Director of Continuing Education

The establishment of the Continuing Education Program at Simmons testifies to the College's willingness to meet new educational demands. As Director of the Program, Mrs. Davis presides over a flexible and comprehensive plan which enables women to continue interrupted educations, pursue advanced degrees, or retrain for new fields by allowing part-time study. Her department is responsible for offering counsel to those enrolled in the Program as well as to women not currently in college. In addition, the Continuing Education department is closely involved with the development of new programs for women, such as the Program in Urban Youth Teacher Preparation.

Mrs. Davis's position is both new and exciting. The significance of her role and the satisfactions inherent in it are very real. "Response to the Program has been terrific," she commented "We must be filling a real need."

DOROTHY GOVE RUSSELL, B.S.
Director of Student Financial Aid

As Director of Student Financial Aid, Mrs. Russell is involved with the processing and evaluation of all applications for financial assistance. Of the approximately 33 per cent of the eligible undergraduates who do file applications, her office is able to provide direct aid for 26 per cent.

The directorship she now holds was created in May of 1961, however, Mrs. Russell has been working at Simmons off and on ever since her graduation from the School of Business Administration. Her experience has been limited, she admitted, but "I've loved every minute of it."

WILLIAM FREDERICK KAHL, Ph.D.
Provost, and Professor of History

As Provost, Mr. Kahl occupies a new position in the administrative structure of Simmons College. His is a multi-faceted role, one which further exemplifies the College's increasing orientation towards the future. As complex as it is significant, Mr. Kahl's role involves the following: integration of long-range departmental plans, initiation of new courses and curriculum revision, co-ordination of curriculum review, and recommendation for changes in the status of faculty.

Simmons is growing and developing its curriculum, Mr. Kahl feels. Essentially his position serves to centralize responsibility for the College's academic affairs. In this manner he is making an invaluable contribution to this growth.
